Unity in Diversity

We pray that Narcotics Anonymous never becomes a gray, faceless, collection of addicts without personalities. We enjoy the color, the compassion, the initiative, the rough and tumble liveliness that arises from the diverse personalities of our members. In fact, our diversity is our strength. We find that the stronger our individual members are the more strongly we united. This is a great denial of NA recovery: In joining together in a commitment to the greater good of Narcotics Anonymous, our own welfare is enhanced beyond measure. In serving the needs of other selflessly anonymously we find our own needs served. In joining anonymously in a fellowship with other recovering addicts. Placing the welfare of the group ahead of our own, our own spiritual growth is enhanced beyond measure, not diminished. So as long as we place spiritual principles first, our individual personalities can grow and flourish like never before, ensuring that our fellowship also continues to flourish, strong and free.
